Mauber, Ryttenberg & Co. of Church street, manufacturers of shirts and nightwear, have, undoubtedly, the best business outlook of almost any concern operating in the city at this time. They are running a full force of about 40 women and with plenty of work in view to keep all hands busy. A ready market is being found for all finished material and the management is looking for a very successful year. Despite the general slump of business in this district, they are not alone in looking for a prosperous year. Several garage men have also expressed the fact that business of their line has already shown promising indications for this season. These reports are rather encouraging, despite the gloomy attitude taken by many people towards operations for this summer.

"Smiles" were in evidence yesterday afternoon in Quarry Bank hall, when over two hundred members of the Barre Woman's club were present at the regular monthly business meeting. After the business was transacted, the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. J. Ward Carver. She certainly provided an afternoon of pleasure, as was evidenced by the good feeling present everywhere when the meeting was finished. The program opened with a splendid rendition of "Humoresque" from Tchaikowsky. Mrs. L. D. Martin then told the origin of "smile week." Quotations on "smiles" from many of the prominent business men of the country to-day were given by Mrs. Kittredge, Mrs. George Tilden, Mrs. Frank Jackson, Mrs. Arthur Young, Mrs. H. J. Slayton, Mrs. C. H. White, Miss Wheelock, Mrs. Harry Jackson, Mrs. Earl Batchelder, Mrs. L. Lander, Mrs. Paine, Mrs. B. W. Hooker and Miss Stella Brooks. Interspersed with these quotations were solos by Mrs. Holden and Harry Clark, which were received with much enthusiasm, they, of course, carrying out the idea of "smiles." The ladies were pleased to have with them Mrs. Benson, who radiated happiness in her talk on "American Humor." With a piano solo by Miss Allen, and a few remarks by the president, Mrs. Hooker, the meeting was closed in favor of the hospital committee, who added to the "smiles" in the form of very dainty refreshments.

Elber B. House of the Montpelier road suffered the loss of a horse valued at $300 Monday. The horse was one of a pair and was highly prized by the owner. The cause of its death is thought to have been indigestion.

There must come a hungering for things musical—this in spite of condition and circumstance—for a crowd that completely filled the Barre opera house—a crowd that would have made the eyes of any manager or producer sparkle with joy and satisfaction—attended attentively and showed its appreciation of the singing of the Italian opera, "Il Trovatore," in English, by the Boston English Opera company. The beautiful arias, duets and trios and the ensemble work of the chorus were sung by a company of creditable singers. The lack of stage detail and a large orchestra to bring out the full elegance of the scene may have been forgotten in the eagerness of the audience to follow the story and singers. However, the performance was one of merit and deserving of the applause accorded it.
